MISSION STATEMENT:

Integrated Directives Inc. believes in serving the national interests of the United States of America through the professional integration of technical equipment and human tactics, techniques, and procedures; this integration is the key to successfully executing given directives through legal and ethical means. Our services are intended to advance the understanding of homeland defense and international terrorism while fostering individual integrity, responsibility, and probity.

OVERVIEW:

Integrated Directives Inc. (IDI) specializes in human intelligence solutions for the United States government. Our commodity is the professional execution and management of advanced special operations missions and training. We are the experienced and technically skilled “boots on the ground” upon whom larger corporations depend to fulfill their sensitive requirements at home and abroad.

Since 2004, IDI has completed over 70 efforts for the Department of Defense CONUS and OCONUS, working with the United States Army Special Forces Command, United States Army Special Operations Command, and Navy Special Warfare Command. As a Veteran Owned subcontractor to large corporations such as Lockheed Martin and SYTEX, our has been awarded over 57 million dollars in contracts.

Integrated Directives Inc.’s core competencies focus on Special Operations skills, such as intelligence gathering, analysis, intelligence technology, and vulnerability assessments. Additionally, our technology efforts have lead to a partnership with a company providing base and base camp development to the DoD and other government agencies; we are currently supporting the installation of a secure IT infrastructure at Bagram Airbase and Kabul in Afghanistan, and will soon be moving to other areas of Afghanistan and Iraq.

IDI has trained every active duty and reserve Army Special Forces unit in Advanced Special Operations Skills (Level II). We have provided instructors, surveillance teams, role players, observer/controllers, and backside management to the Advanced Operation Course at Ft. Huachuca; few other Veteran Owned Businesses have this type of past performance with the doctrinally mandated TTPs of these advanced training programs. United States Army Intelligence and Security Command and 7th Special Forces Group (A) have sought our expertise in developing customized programs of instruction and initiating pilot courses to meet their specific needs.

IDI operators and instructors are Special Forces, FBI, and OGA veterans who understand the real world intricacies of Advanced Special Operations methods. IDI has a reputation for professionalism and ethical conduct, as well as superior performance. Our core competencies allow us to provide operational support and training for a variety of HUMINT and technical security challenges.
